I was rather disappointed today upon receipt of your letter of 23 September to find that over a month had elapsed since my letter to you of 29 August 1947 requesting that [redacted] complete Forms 38-1, Personal History Statements, and forward them to this office by airmail as soon as possible.

STATINTL

I believe it should have been obvious to you and [redacted] that we would not have requested additional forms from him unless they were necessary. In this particular instance, there is no record of these forms ever having been received in this office. I was directed by the Executive for Inspections and Security to furnish these forms with the least possible delay, and find myself now more than a month later not being able to supply them for another two weeks. This is, I am sure you understand, a little bit difficult for me to explain to my superiors.

STATINTL

I expect that in the future requests of this nature will be complied with without delay.

Sincerely yours,

[redacted]
Chief, FBIS
